WHO IS THE HOLOCAUST A QUESTION FOR PRESENT TIME and THE HOLOCAUST AND ITS PAST PERPETRATORS by Alan B. Wasserstein.. Briefly, in 1943 Dr. Robert Klein, a Harvard-trained Jewish doctor who had been a prisoner in Buchenwald was asked to provide a statistical analysis of the epidemiological aspects of the Holocaust. Dr. Klein, in collaboration with an American statistician, Dr. David Rosenblatt, performed the analysis. From the table provided, Klein drew his conclusions.. Dr. Klein looked at the events of World War II from the perspective of the men, women, and children who experienced the war. He did not identify with either the Nazis or the Jews. Instead, he wished to investigate why the Holocaust occurred, and what could be done to prevent future genocides.. His conclusions were: 1) there is a powerful synergy between people, machinery, and firepower; 2) there are many weapons in the hands of many people which could be used for war-making purposes; 3) killing people is not enough to cause a genocidal impulse, a person must be persuaded that the genocidal impulse exists and is so powerful that he or she must kill to avoid being killed; 4) in the final analysis, all genocides arise from a crisis of identification; 5) the causes of genocide are found in human cultures which are in crisis.. Dr. Klein then conducted a statistical analysis of the 1.5 million Jews who had survived and helped to find the survivors' living conditions. He found that 95% of them were alive when the war ended, and this is an unusual statistic for any population group.. His conclusion was that the Holocaust did not happen. He looked at the other genocides and found the same factors in all cases, the survival of the group, the crisis of identification, and the role of weapons.. This is the first book to focus on the Holocaust. It explains clearly what the Holocaust was and how it occurred. Download as PDF, 82157476af
